1. Here's how to ask your documents a question and get the page it came from, in plain words.

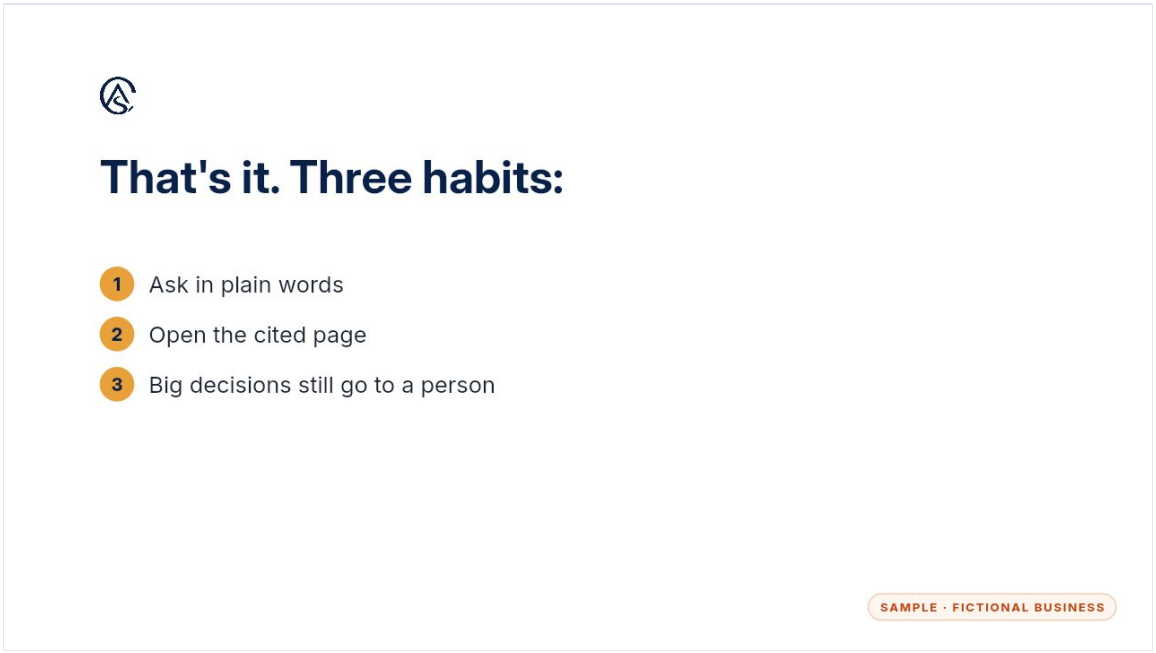

2 Document Desk reads the documents in your own company account. Nothing leaves it, and it only reads the folders you've chosen.

3 Ask in plain words, the way you'd ask a colleague. You don't need the document's name or the clause number.

4 The answer cites the document and the page, so you can open it and check. If it can't find the answer, it says so instead of guessing.

5 Ask plainly, check the page, and leave big decisions to a person. It finds the answer fast; you decide what to do with it.
