1. Before you set anything up, count how many calls you're missing each week. It takes about four minutes.

2 Open your phone's call log, or your provider's, and count last week's missed calls. Include the ones that went to voicemail and never called back.

3 Write the number in your quick start. Thirty days after the app goes live, count again the same way and compare the two.

4 Same week length, same call log, both times, so the comparison is fair.
