1. Rule six of your policy says assistants that talk to customers say they're AI and offer a person.

2 Paste the website chat instructions from your kit where your chat tool takes rules. They tell it to say it's an automated assistant in its first reply, and to offer a person whenever someone asks.

3 Test it from your phone. The first reply should say it's automated. For your phone answering app, the greeting should say the caller is talking with an AI assistant.

4 Then ask it for a person. It should offer one straight away and take your details, without trying to keep you in the chat.
